FEAR DAMAGE TO SEA TRADE LINES

Southern Cities Ask Delay in Vote on Referendum of National C. of C.

Request that the Memphis Chamber of Commerce postpone action on referendum 25 of the national chamber of commerce, which relates to the future of the government-owned merchant marine, because action might result in serious consequences to new trade routes from Gulf and South Atlantic ports, in a joint telegram from the chambers of commerce of Savannah, Ga., Charleston, S. C., Wilmington, Del., and Brunswick, Ga. The telegram does not say why the straw vote of the Memphis chamber might be harmful at this time, but promises to explain in a letter to follow.

The referendum has already been referred to the referendum committee of the chamber, of which H. H. Parker is chairman.

Referendum 25 proposes a vote on the recommendations of the national chamber's committee on "ocean transportation regarding government-owned merchant ships." These recommendations are: The sale of wooden vessels and of steel vessels under 6,000 tons deadweight on terms obtainable from American or foreign bidders; sale of other government-owned vessels to regional associations for American underwriters, without intervention by government insurance; encouragement of an American classification society; a general declaration by congress of policy to give aid toward the maintenance of a privately-owned and operated American merchant marine; continuation of operation of the competent American shipbuilding yards on private account both as to yards and the vessels they construct.

Irish Meet To Plan Reception For De Valera

A meeting of the arrangements and reception committee to meet Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish republic, has been called for Friday evening, Nov. 21, at 8 o'clock at the assembly room, sixth floor, of the Chamber of Commerce.

De Valera will speak here Dec. 4 and the most enthusiastic gathering of Irish in years is expected to attend. The committee in charge consists of J. T. Walsh, Jr., A. H. Dean, James J. Corrigan and John C. Ryan.

De Valera is the most defiant of the patriots who rebelled against England in the insurrection of Easter week, 1916. His dogged determination was not even broken by his term in the convict prison of Dartmoor, where he was sent with other patriots from all parts of Ireland.

Absolute silence is the rule of the English convict system. But when Prof. John McNeill, commander-in-chief of the Irish Volunteers, arrived to serve a life sentence, all rules and regulations were discarded. De Valera, an senior officer, recognized McNeill at the morning parade and called his followers to the salute: "Irish Volunteers! Attention! Eyes left!"

The warden of the jail were dumfounded, but they were made to realize that the convict tunic had not dimmed the old spirit of defiance, and that the men with whom they had to deal were not murderers, forgers nor criminals. They were soldiers.

De Valera will contend in detail that England broke her faith with Ireland after promising liberty and freedom, unqualified and forever.

Other matters of intense interest pertaining to the new republic will also be discussed.

PLEADS FOR DEMOCRACY IN U. S. INDUSTRIES

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—There can be no industrial peace until there is more democracy in industry, John Leitch, of New York, asserted in an address at the closing session of the convention of the American Mining congress today.

"Our industrial government has been too autocratic," Mr. Leitch declared. "We seem to have been convinced that Providence in His wisdom has left in our hands the management of the common people."

"I do not believe the management needs changing, but I am convinced the methods of management can be made less unpopular. The management must be made popular, or the business can not be profitable."

THREE CONVICTED IN INSURANCE FAILURE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 21.—Charles F. Birdseye, Kellogg Birdseye and George F. Montgomery, all of New York, were today convicted of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust company, an insurance corporation.

Testimony at the trial, which lasted more than a week, was to the effect that soon after control of the company passed into the hands of the defendants and their associates in New York, the assets of the company were converted into cash.
